Football Players Prepare Game

Football will be ushered into Alabama in Tuscaloosa Thursday when some 57 graduated Alabama seniors open a nine-day practice session for the 11th annual All-Star court contest between Northern and Southern players, August 8.

Both games are sponsored by the Alabama High School Athletic Association and the State High School Coaches Association, in cooperation with the University of Alabama, and Stations WAPI and WAPL-TV.

During this period, the 31st annual University of Alabama Coaching Clinic will be underway, with Coach Bill Murray of Duke University, as the chief grid lecturer, George Ireland, coach of last year's national champion, Loyola of Chicago basketball team, will be in charge of the cage instructions.

Coach Paul Bryant, and the entire University coaching staff, will also participate. With J. D. Chestnut, of Geneva County High, Hartford, as head coach, the South football team will be coached by Stan Frazier, of Orville, Duane Webster, Reeltown High of Not-Auska, Edrick Lee Godwin, of Millbury, and Charles Martin, of Montevallo.

North Coaches will be Bud Mills of Cherokee Vocational High School, assisted by Jim Cunningham of D. B. Comer of Sylacauga; Hugh O'Shield, Cleveland; Travis L. Hudson, Gurry of Jasper; Ken Gentry, of Cullman.

The basketball instructors will be, for the South, Bill Joiner of Slaney, Lanier of Montgomery and Johnny Oppert of Wicksburg High of Newton. For the North, Morris Schrimmer, Danville and Walter A. Holt of Emma Sansom High School of Gadsden.

This year, the basketball match will be held at Fort Rucker Auditorium, starting at 8 p. m. on August 8. The grid contest will get underway at 7:45 p. m., August 9, at Denny Stadium.

After the All-Star games, numerous players from both court and grid squads will be reporting to various colleges, as many hold athletic scholarships to schools throughout the nation.

The North and South football and basketball squads are made up of graduated seniors from the upper and lower halves of the state, and to be selected for the All-Star game is one of the highest honors a young Alabama athlete can win. The players are chosen by the coaches and principals. A feature of the annual contest is that every squad member gets to play, unless injured.

In 15 previous All-Star football games, the South won 7, the North 6, and 2 were tied. On the court, the North has won 7, the South 3.

In recent years, a Cheerleader Clinic has been conducted in conjunction with the sports extravaganza. This year's dates are August 7-9, and the megaphone wielders will be there to cheer the teams.

Add a little baking soda to baked beans. It will make the beans more digestible. Remove splattered paint from tile with nail polish remover.

Each season brings novelty fabrics in high-style colors and designs. But a high fashion is not a good buy unless it looks well on you, fits your way of life and promises to stay in style as long as you must wear it.

Outdoor picnic tables are hard to clean, so plan to cover them instead.

accessible for the young people to ride bikes to. This has been the main thought of the land committee, to find land close enough to Elba so that children may be able to get to the club easily. A diagram will appear in the paper next week showing the exact location.

An aerial photo will be made in a few days and will be placed in a prominent place in town which will not only show the location of the Elba Country Club, this land is located only 3 miles from the clubhouse swimming pool and fish pond.

The Finance Committee will meet later this week to determine cost of membership and all other details so that membership may be purchased within the next two weeks. All committees have worked very hard in carrying out their responsibilities and from the enthusiasm being shown the Elba Country Club is fast becoming a reality. Many reports are being received from neighboring towns congratulating the people of Elba on this venture.

Early Coffee Countians Chose Elba As Site For Court House

BY J. D. SMITH, ELBA, ALABAMA

Coffee was created a county on December 29, 1841. By this time the county was filling with settlers coming in from Georgia and other Southeastern states. The Indian wars were still fresh in the minds of the people and it was natural that the county and county seat should have been named for two heroes of these wars, General John Coffee, for whom the county was named, and General Andrew Jackson, during the Creek Indian War of 1813-14. The first county seat of Coffee County was located at Wellborn, located about one fourth of a mile east of the present Damascus church. The county seat was named for General William Wellborn, who was one of the Alabama Commanders in the Creek Indian War of 1836-37.

The court house at Wellborn was destroyed by fire in March, 1851. The story still persists that the burning of the court house was arson as most of the people were not satisfied with its location. Due to opposition to rebuilding the courthouse at the relatively inaccessible Wellborn, the legislature, on January 30, 1852, passed an act directing the sheriff to hold an election on the first Monday in August, 1852, to determine the permanent location of the court house. The voters were authorized to select Wellborn, Elba, or Indigo Head (Clintonville), and the site receiving a majority of the votes was to be the county seat, provided the citizens of the town should build a good and substantial court house and jail free of charge to the county.

Due to the fact that more voters were living around Elba, they won the election. The citizens of the town of Elba were well pleased over the selection of their town as the county seat. A mass meeting was held and F. M. Cannon, Nicajah Harper, and James M. Carthen were appointed as a building committee to see to the courthouse and jail. J. B. Simmons donated the square for the court house and a suitable lot for the jail. It is not known how the money was raised to pay for the construction of the building, for Elba was not incorporated at this time.

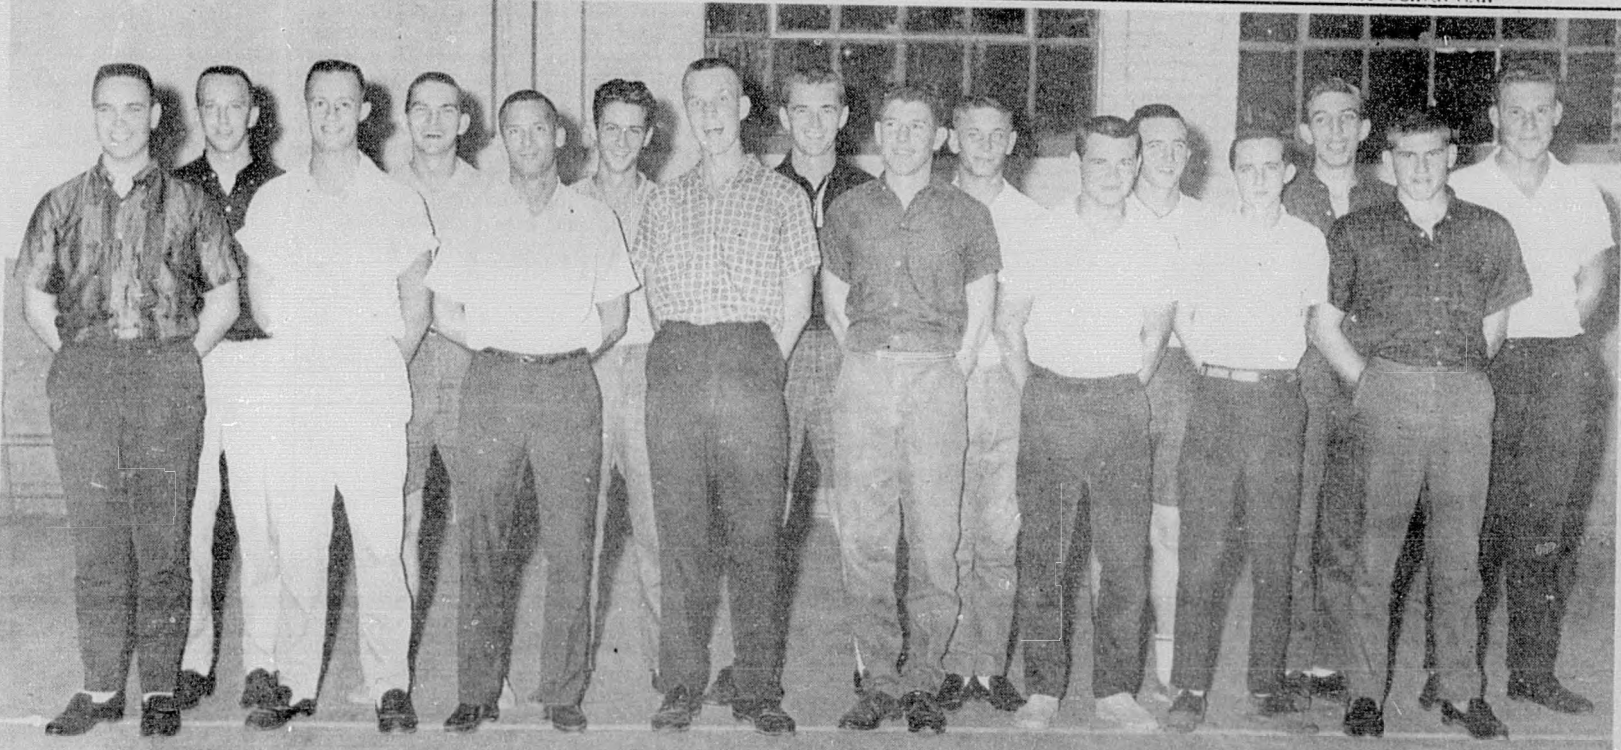

The courthouse when completed was a painted two-story building with a painted railing fence around it. As tobacco chewing was prevalent, it was customary to keep saw on the floor of the courtroom. To this end barrels of saw dust were conveniently provided. The title to the court house and jail were conveyed to the county on September 12, 1853. It is interesting to note that the courthouse has remained on the same square in Elba since that time.

Site Chosen For Elba's Proposed Country Club, Committees Progressive

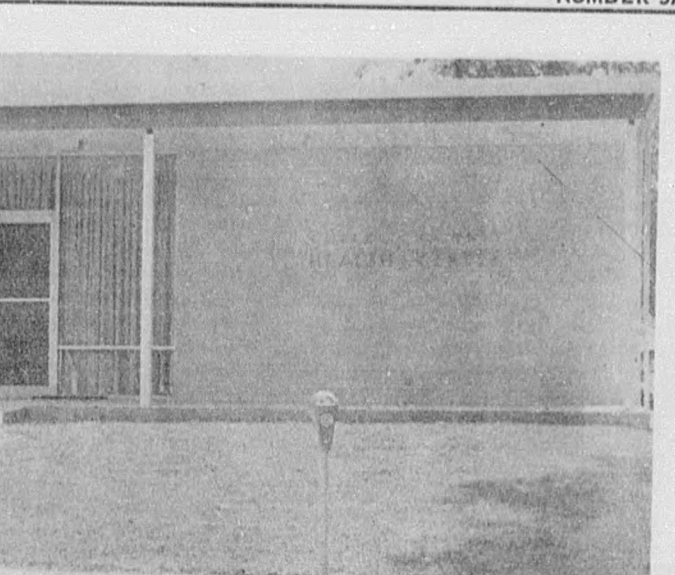

The Country Club Committee met at the Elba Recreation Building Monday and heard a report from the following committees: club house, swimming pool and fish pond.

The land committee reported the best news so far that is that a tract of land has been agreed upon that would be the site for the Elba Country Club. This land is located only 3 miles from the courthouse and will be easily accessible for the young people to ride bikes to. This has been the main thought of the land committee, to find land close enough to Elba so that children may be able to get to the club easily. A diagram will appear in the paper next week showing the exact location.

An aerial photo will be made in a few days and will be placed in a prominent place in town which will not only show the land but the location of the clubhouse, swimming pool and fish pond, also the location of the fairways for the golf course.

The Finance Committee will meet later this week to determine cost of membership and all other details so that membership may be purchased within the next two weeks. All committees have worked very hard in carrying out their responsibilities and from the enthusiasm being shown the Elba Country Club is fast becoming a reality. Many reports are being received from neighboring towns, congratulating the people of Elba on this venture.

Sunny Innan, the general chairman stated that he believes this committee most active and progressive committee that he has ever been associated with. There is still plenty of work to be done so if you haven't been contacted don't feel left out because you will be contacted.

In recent years, a Cheerleader Clinic has been conducted in conjunction with the sports extravaganza. This year's dates are August 7-9, and the megaphone wielders will be there to cheer the teams.

Football, basketball, track, baseball, and this year for the first time, wrestling, will be instructed at the coaching clinic. Training and safety in athletics also is taught to student managers and athletic trainers.

Basketball Football Players Prepare Game

Football will be ushered into Alabama in Tuscaloosa Thursday when some 57 graduated Alabama seniors open a nine-day practice session for the 10th annual North-South football game, August 9.

At the same time, a squad of 20 basketball players will check in to prepare for the 11th annual All-Star court contest between Northern and Southern players, August 8.

Both games are sponsored by the Alabama High School Athletic Association and the State High School Coaches Association, in cooperation with the University of Alabama, and Stations WAPI and WAPI-TV.

During this period, the 31st annual University of Alabama Coaching Clinic will be underway, with Coach Bill Murray of Duke University, as the chief grid lecturer, George Irwin, coach of last year's national champion Loyola of Chicago basketball team, will be in charge of the cage instructions.

Coach Paul Bryant, and the entire University coaching staff, will also participate.

With J. D. Chestnut, of Geneva County High, Hartford, as head coach, the South football team will be coached by Stan Frazer, of Orrville, Duane Webster, Reelton High of North Carolina, and Charles Martin, of Montevallo.

North Coaches will be Bud Mills of Cherokee Vocational High School, assisted by Jim Cunningham of D. B. Comer of Sylva, Ga., and Hugh O'Shield of Cleveland; Travis L. Hudson, Curry of Jasper, and Ken Gunter, of Cullman.

The basketball instructors will be the South, Bill Joiner of Sidney Lanier of Montgomery and Johnny Gopfert of Wicksburg High of Newton, for the North, Morris Schirmsher, Danville, and Walter A. Holt of Emma Sansom High School of Gadsden.

An innovation this year, the basketball and grid contests are being held on different days. In the past seasons, the basketball game was held in the afternoon, and the football game that night. This year, the basketball match will be held at Foster Auditorium, starting at 8 p. m. on August 8. The grid contest will get underway at 7:45 p. m., August 9, at Denny Stadium.

After the All-Star games, numerous players from both court and grid squads will be reporting to various colleges, as many hold athletic scholarships to schools throughout the nation.

The North and South football and basketball squads are made up of graduated seniors from the upper and lower halves of the state, and to be selected for the All-Star game is one of the highest honors a young Alabama athlete can win. The players are chosen by the coaches and principals. A feature of the annual contest is that every squad member gets top play, unless injured.

In 15 previous All-Star football games, the South won 7, the North 6, and 2 were tied. On the court, the North has won 7, the South 3.

In recent years, a Cheerleader Clinic has been conducted in conjunction with the sports extravaganza. This year's dates are August 7-9, and the megaphone wielders will be there to cheer the teams.

Football, basketball, track, baseball, and this year for the first time, wrestling, will be instructed at the coaching clinic. Training and safety in athletics also is taught to student managers and athletic trainers.

George C. Wallace, it is announced by Asa Roundtree, Jr., State Director of Aeronautics. The program will start at 1:30 p.m.

The Albertville airport has a paved runway, 3500 x 80 feet, paved aprons, paved connecting taxiway, runway lights, base operator and full time daylight service. Also 14 hangars, built at local expense.

Early Coffee Countians Chose Elba As Site For Court House

BY J. D. SMITH, ELBA, ALABAMA

Coffee was created a county on December 29, 1841. By this time the county was filling with settlers coming in from Georgia and other Southeastern states. The Indian war were still fresh in the minds of the people and it was natural that the county and county seat should have been named for two heroes of these wars, General John Coffee, for whom the county was named, and General Andrew Jackson, during the Creek Indian War of 1813-14. The first county seat of Coffee County was located at Wellborn, located about one-fourth of a mile east of the present Damascus church. The county seat was named for General William Wellborn, who was one of the Alabama Commanders in the Creek Indian War of 1836-37.

The court house at Wellborn was destroyed by fire in March 1851. The story still persists that the burning of the court house was arson as most of the people were not satisfied with its location. Due to opposition to rebuilding the courthouse at the relatively inaccessible Wellborn, the legislature, on January 30, 1852, passed an act directing the sheriff to hold an election, on the first Monday in August, 1852, to determine the permanent location of the court house. The voters were authorized to select Wellborn, Elba, or Indigo Head (Clintonville), and the site receiving a majority of the votes was to be the county seat, provided the citizens of the town should build a good and substantial court house and jail free of charge to the county.

Due to the fact that more voters were living around

Elba, they won the election. The citizens of the town of Elba were well pleased over the selection of their town as the county seat. A mass meeting was held and F. M. Gannon, Nicholas Harper, and James M. Gauthen were appointed a building committee to see to the construction of the courthouse and a suitable lot for the jail. J. B. Simmons donated the square for the courthouse and a suitable lot for the jail. It is not known how the money was raised to pay for the construction of the building, for Elba was not incorporated at this time.

have premarital sex experience in order to be sure that they are suited. I can't buy that but how can we be sure that our marriage will be happy? — BRIDE-TO-BE

DEAR TO BE: I won't buy it. There are some things which are far too cheap, and this suggestion is in the sub-basement of shop-bought bargains. It would be wise, since you are already engaged, to talk over these matters frankly with each other. Should you feel the need for further help, see a marriage counselor or a minister who is trained in counseling.

DEAR JANE: I am a boy 14 years of age. I have pimples, and the girls don't like me because of this. How can I get rid of these pimples? — BLUE

DEAR BLUE: See your doctor, for he can offer some suggestions which will help you. Your social problem may be imaginary, for girls sometimes have this trouble, too!

DEAR JANE: My husband comes home drunk almost every week-end when he gets his pay, and beats me and the children. Conditions have become almost unbearable. I have had to go to the hospital on two occasions because of injuries which he has inflicted on me. Friends have advised me to leave him; but I am hoping for the children's sake that there is some other solution. Can you offer me advice? — BLACK AND BLUE

DEAR B. AND B.: Your husband definitely needs help, and so will you, if something isn't done soon. Insist that he see a doctor or a clergyman, or both. If he refuses, then secure yourself a baseball bat to use in self defense.

DEAR JANE: I am very much in love with a young man. He says he loves me. However, he is constantly breaking dates at the last minute. He says it is business. Recently, after he had called to break a date, I saw him later with a girl of very bad reputation. When I mentioned this to a close and trusted friend, I was told that he is seen often with this girl and others like her. Under these circumstances, do you think he could really mean business with me? — BEGINNING TO DOUBT

DEAR BEGINNING: Yes, I'm sure he means business—monkey business, that is. Drop him, and the sooner the better!

DEAR SLEEPLESS: This will keep your husband from snoring, or at least cut some of it: let a little hair in the room. I should know; I have a new baby.

Scott advised anyone who has a question as to the accuracy of a privately published book about social security to ask his social security office about it. He emphasized that there are many reliable privately published books about social security and that the publishers of these books perform a service to the public in helping the Social Security Administration to inform people about their rights and responsibilities under the social security law.

Homes Abound with Potential Poisons, AMA Official Warns

Children, supposedly "safe at home," are poisoning themselves at the rate of nearly 1,500 a day. "When you consider that more than a quarter million home-used products on the market contain poisons, it is not difficult to understand why more than 500 children die each year from self-administered poisons," said F. J. L. Blasigame, M.D., executive vice-president of the American Medical Association.

Children are naturally curious, especially the very young ones. They are prone to stick their mouths anything they can get their hands on. It doesn't even have to taste good or look pretty. Most accidental poisonings occur in children under five. Two-year-olds are the most poisonous group, with one-year-olds close behind. At this stage in life their curiosity is at its height and their sense of fear is not yet developed. Dr. Blasigame explained.

A primary cause of such accidents, says Dr. Blasigame, is storing poisonous substances in food containers or soft drink bottles. A toddler just naturally assumes that a soft drink bottle contains a treat. He'll drink whatever he finds in it. "The facts are clear," he warned, "between 65 and 70 per cent of all poisonings take place because an item was accessible to a child."

"If we're going to live in modern homes with modern conveniences and modern medicines, we have to develop standards that make home safe for our children."

Among the suggested steps to avoid poisoning hazards in the home, Dr. Blasigame suggested:

- Keep potential poisons out of reach and tightly sealed.
- Never transfer toxic materials into household utensils.
- Don't leave your child alone in a room in which you're working with poisons.
- Give medicines only in a lighted room.

If your child might have taken a poisonous substance, call your doctor for instructions at once. Don't wait to see what happens.

Rambling Roses and Flying Bricks

By Earl Tucker

I have a friend, bless his thoughtful soul, who is a pamphlet sender. For ten or more years now, hardly a week has passed but what he has mailed me some sort of little tract about some subject. What amazes me is that they always contain dire and dreadful thoughts.

For a long time he was powerfully worried about the communists and I was kept pretty well informed as to their diabolical plans for world conquest and universal slavery. Then he sort of eased up on the communies. Maybe he gave up or maybe he figured he had been whipped, but all of a sudden he switched to the national debt and the pamphlets started pouring in. He made little notations on some of the pages and I remember a few years ago he predicted that a loaf of bread would cost $25 within six months if we didn't stop deficit spending and he had me pretty well upset until I figured out that I was about as much in debt as the government, in proportion, so I started worrying how I could buy a loaf of bread while it was still 21¢.

Well, the government must have paid back what they owed, because he let up on the debt and for six months I started getting pamphlets each week based on the theme, "Whither Youth?" After reading some of these articles, I confess I was pretty upset as to the future of our country, on account of the youth were whithering in the wrong direction. At the end of the six-month period I reckon the young people got to whithering in the right direction, because my friend suddenly changed themes and took out after the drug manufacturers. At the time I wasn't buying much in the drug line - except for a few aspirin tablets - and I never was able to get worked up much on that subject. Here lately I have decided to go back and dig up some of those pamphlets and see what makes those little red and yellow pills so expensive.

Then, for a time he became obsessed with the school textbook setup and somehow he managed to find some literature on that subject. It has always amazed me how he could obtain so much information - or mis-information, on whatever subject he happened to be upset over. If I had to write a thesis next week on malaria fever I bet I couldn't find a word about it. But my friend would get upset and find barrels of information and get more upset and he isn't satisfied to be upset all by himself - so he gets enough to upset all of his friends.

During my stay in the hospital the fellow sort of let up on me and all I got from him were some nice get-well cards, but I reckon he heard I was back home, because the pamphlets have started pouring in again.

What's happening now is that some preacher has figured out the end of the world is right around the corner. The first little tract I got was entitled, "Signs point to early end of time," and this writer said some pretty convincing arguments and as I read, I would look out the window occasionally to see if the fire had already started.

It sure was disheartening for me to realize I had gone through so many operations and spent so much money trying to regain my health and then see the world destroyed just when I got to feeling better. It so happened though, that a preacher friend came by to see me and he showed me way over there in the back part of the Bible where it says, "but the end is not yet," so I'm going to write my pamphlet-sending friend to get worried about something else.

Right now I have plenty of time on my hands and I'd be glad to help him worry some about whither youth or the spread of communism.

Cattlemen To Hold

First Feeder Cattle

August 14

Wednesday, August 14, the Coffee County Cattlemen's Association will sponsor their first feeder calf and stocker cattle sale at the Enterprise Livestock Auction Barn on Geneva Highway, Enterprise, Ala.

Charles Gibson, president of the Coffee County Cattlemen's Association, is asking all farmers who have calves and stocker cattle to sell to advise him, or Carlton Larkins of Elba, Route 2, or the County Agent, J. R. Speed, Enterprise.

Gibson says that by bringing together a large number of feeder calves it enables buyers to select calves for a number of outlets, creating a greater demand for all feeder and stocker cattle with the farmers or producers benefiting from the sale.

Farmers or producers do not have to be a member of the Coffee County Cattlemen's Association to sell their livestock at this sale. Furthermore, Gibson says that the sale is open to all producers from other counties or areas.

The barn will be opened early and the sale starts at 1:30 p.m.

Parents Eligible

Checks Deceased Veterans

Dependent parents of deceased veterans receiving service-connected death compensation payments from the VA will receive a special dependency questionnaire with their monthly checks on or about August 31, the VA announced today.

At the same time, veterans who are receiving additional service-connected disability compensation because of a dependent parent or parents will also receive the dependency questionnaire. If S. Kendrick, Adjudication Officer at the Alabama VA Regional Office in Montgomery said.

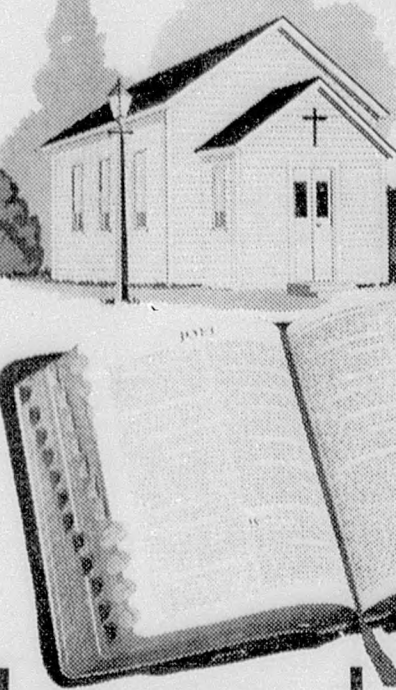

At the time parents were placed on the compensation rolls, they were definitely determined to be dependent. The purpose of the questionnaire is to establish the fact that they have continued to be dependent and are still eligible for payment.

Recipients of the questionnaire are expected to return them before October 31. Kendrick advises recipients that all questionnaires must be returned by the deadline date.

Since the questionnaire cards will be handled by machinery, recipients are requested not to fold, cut, mutilate or trim them in any manner.

He Helped Me See
Life Through...

THE EYES
OF GOD

THE CHURCH FOR ALL...
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

I was a little girl, then. The pews at our church were rough wooden benches, and my feet wouldn't reach the floor.

But, as though it were yesterday, I remember his sermon. About a woman who poured oil on the feet of Jesus. Some people said this was a wasteful thing to do. The oil was expensive; the money might have been given to the poor... But Jesus wasn't angry with the woman!

"In the eyes of God," our old minister said, "the most precious treasure is the love in a human heart."

No single thought has influenced my life more than that one. Most of my happiness - all of my strength when sorrows come - have been somehow entwined with that simple truth. I shudder at times to think what if that day I had not been there?

A sermon, a prayer, a Bible passage does not touch the same chord in every heart. But as you seek each Sunday to see life through the eyes of God, there will come mighty visions stirring the depths of your soul.

"Stars Fell On Alabama" Now Being Presented At State Fairgrounds

Tells In Music And

Dance Story From

Indians To Present

The big musical spectacular, "Stars Fell On Alabama," at the State Fairgrounds August 7 through August 10 is a show the like of which has never before played in Alabama. It tells - in music and dance - the story of the Indians through the days of the settlements and the Confederacy to the present.

It's an All-Alabama, All-Star Musical Spectacular that brought a standing ovation and ringing cheers from 50,000 people from all over the world in Miami recently. It played to an audience of 24,000 and an evening audience of over 26,000.

The show was originally produced at a cost of tens of thousands of dollars for the Lions Club Tent at the Greenleaf Hotel in Birmingham as a compliment to Aubrey Greenleaf, Alabama's new international Lions President. He is the first international president from Alabama in over 30 years.

It was acclaimed as the best such show that has ever been presented at a Lions Club Convention. It made such a tremendous impact on Governor George Wallace that he went backstage to praise the producer and cast, and to discuss the possibility of taking the production to other parts of the country to show the great contribution that Alabama makes to the musical and cultural life of our country.

"Stars Fell On Alabama" is the same big, colorful fast-moving show brimming over with melodies, movement and fun, that set Miami on its ears.

It has something for everybody. It's a grand show that all the family can enjoy together outdoors in the thousands of fine seats in the Fair Ground Grandstand. It has everything from folk music to grand opera singing, dancing, drama and comedy. It's just the thing for a wonderful summer holiday for all the family.

World-famous Alabama born stars from all corners of the country have gathered in Birmingham for the show.

The "Stars Fell On Alabama" show begins with a prologue that takes the audience back to the days of the Indians in Alabama, and then, in different acts, salutes Spain, France, England, and the Confederacy, under whose flags Alabama lived; the era of the Confederacy, and a salute to Alabama - and to Helen Keller.

The theme of each act is a salute to Spain, France, England, and the Confederacy - the flags that have flown over Alabama. The fabulous music revue begins with the days of the Indians in Alabama. Then it takes up Spain, France, England, and then moves on through the era of the Confederacy to the present.

Out-of-state people who have seen the brilliant Town and Gown production say it gives them a completely different picture of the state - a far better understanding of Alabama's great contributions to our country.

Starting the show off on an exciting note is William Skipper and dancers in "Ceremonial Dance from Indian Suite" and Ralph Blane and Ensemble in "Pass That Peace Pipe" from "Good News" by Birmingham's Hugh Martin and Ralph Blane.

Freddie Jordan, Alabama's own grand opera star who has sung with the Metropolitan Opera, San Francisco, Chicago, Milan, Covent Garden, La Scala, and other leading opera companies of the world is the star of stars. She sings "Carmen" in the Salute to Spain and she will sing "The Salute to France and the Confederacy."

England's Salute features dancers, Ralph Blane and Bill Skipper, Irene Jordan, the Steeple Arts Ensemble, Bill Skipper, Boots Carroll, Lynn Holloman and Ensemble stars in the Salute to the Confederacy.

A thrilling salute to Alabama includes the popular "Alabama Bound" number by the Ensemble; "Mobile" by Martha Moore Sykes, Lynn Holloman, Bill Skipper and Lola Coates; "Birmingham" from "The Girl Rush," by Hugh Martin, sung by Ralph Blane; and numbers from "Best Foot Forward" featuring Ralph Blane.

The rousing finale spotlights Irene Jordan, Ensemble and her set with a spectacular display of fireworks when stars really fall on Alabama.

William Skipper, one of Broadway's leading choreographers and dancers directs the musical numbers assisted by Lola Mae Coates of Birmingham's Steeple Arts Ballet.

"Stars Fell On Alabama" is a big, colorful, fast-moving show brimming over with melodies, movement and fun. It's a show for the whole family, spotlighting the glorious past and present of Alabama.

Rounding out this exciting Town and Gown production directed by James Hatcher is Judy Short, Miss Alabama, playing "Honor Sacton" on the marimba, and the beautiful and talented Miss North Carolina Jeanne Swanner, a Junior at Auburn University. All Alabama is invited to go to the State Fairgrounds in Birmingham August 7-10 to see the show that was standing ovations in Miami at the International Lions Club Convention.

Out-of-state people who have seen the brilliant Town and Gown production say it gives them a completely different picture of the state - a far better understanding of Alabama's great contributions to our country.

U Of A Students

Take Notes Of

Busy Homemaker

Students in a special class at the University of Alabama watched as a young homemaker busily prepared a picnic lunch for a family outing.

As they watched, they made notes - recording the number of ounces she bent, scooped, reached, and most particularly, the number of steps she took.

When the lunch was finished, they added the score. Among other items, they noted that she walked roughly 600 feet while making a potato salad. After peeling each potato, they counted out, she would walk to the sink and wash it, they return to the table, where she was working, to cut it.

If she could simplify one operation of this type each day, to eliminate unnecessary movements, she could save herself 34 miles of walking each year, they learned. And if she happened to have a heart ailment, these miles could be crucial to her health.

The students, nine of them are enrolled in a Summer workshop on home management techniques for cardiac housewives. The workshop, which is being presented by the University of Alabama School of Home Economics, in cooperation with the Alabama Heart Association, is a two-week course which will conclude Friday, August 2.

The students - most of them teachers, home economists and nurses - are preparing to teach the techniques they are learning to cardiac housewives in their own areas. Eight of the nine are attending the course on scholarships provided by the Alabama Heart Association.

The workshop curriculum was designed to show how the job of running a house can be trimmed down to make it easier on any housewife and to bring it within the limitations of the woman with heart disease.

Included are energy-conserving work routines, time and motion studies, special storage devices and heavy objects, for instance, should be kept as near as possible to the top shelves and their heavy iron skillets in the bottom of their cabinets," she said. That skillet, she said, should be as near as possible to the level of the surface of the stove. Platters, she added, rate a place on the most accessible shelves, and the top ones should be reserved for lighter objects, such as glasses.

Among the visiting lecturers participating in the course was Dr. William A. Spear, Dean of the School of Architecture and Arts, Auburn University. Dr. Spear discussed functional housing, from the home management point of view, and described some special features which could be built in for the benefit of cardiac patients.

The workshop group also heard talks on cardiovascular diseases and on human work capacities, by Tuscaloosa physicians.

Talks on body mechanics in relation to energy expenditure were given by Dr. Willis J. Baughman, professor of health and physical education at the University of Alabama, and Mrs. Cole discussed body mechanics in household activities.

The Summer workshop is part of a long-range plan by the Alabama Heart Association to set up several demonstration programs throughout the state to teach home management techniques for handicapped homemakers. Persons attending the course, which gave them two hours of college credit, will be qualified to assist in presenting these programs.

While any part of the skin may be involved, psoriasis often occurs on the scalp, the back of the elbows and knees, and the lower part of the back. The course of the disease is variable, with remissions and recurrences occurring with more or less frequency. In one person the attack is severe and widespread, while in another it is mild and limited in extent. The unsightly plaques may disappear for months and years, only to return with renewed vigor.

The cause of psoriasis is still unknown although it is recognized that it may be precipitated by infection, seasonal changes, chemical irritants or injury to the skin, diet, drugs, or emotions. In the past ten years, new drugs have aided in treatment of this complicated disease. Each case of psoriasis is an individual problem requiring special treatment and particularly the co-operation of the patient.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of the Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

Psoriasis, pronounced so-ri-as-is, the most common single skin disease, afflicts an estimated 4,000,000 Americans. A disease of many varieties, it is characterized by the formation of scaly red patches on the surface of the body.

At first, the bright red spots may be only pinhead size; later they are covered with dry scales in thin, glistening, mother-of-pearl-like layers. When peeled off, the scales reveal underneath smooth moist surface studded with tiny bleeding points. The spots increase in size, join others to make large patches, and spread often in bizarre patterns over the skin.

Make That Corn on the Cob Something Extra-Special

Corn on the cob is the all-American summer favorite—drenched in butter and sprinkled with salt and freshly-ground pepper.

Follow these tips for the best corn of the season:

Whenever possible, cook corn right after picking. Young corn is naturally sweet if cooked and served immediately, but a few hours off the stalk, chemical changes occur which lessen the sweet flavor. It's worth a trip to the country to obtain fresh-picked corn.

To cook, remove the husk and silk. In a large shallow pan, bring one inch of liquid—half water, half milk—to a full rolling boil. Place corn into the liquid one ear at a time so that boiling is not disturbed. Add one tablespoon of sugar, cover and boil rapidly until tender. This will take from four to 10 minutes, depending on the age of the corn.

Whipping Boy

Kings used to be looked upon as sacred, since it was believed that they derived their right to rule from God. This sacredness extended also to princes.

During his schooling a prince at times would do something that called for punishment, but whipping him was not allowed.

The prince had a male companion who was educated with him and who received other advantages that he would not have received otherwise. The companion, known as a "whipping boy," had to take punishment for the prince.

The practice ended long ago, but the figurative expression "whipping boy" is still used to denote a person who bears the blame for another.

of a church in Jackson, Miss., "Do you think it a good idea to accept the position with all that trouble going on down there?" his wife asked. "Have you talked it over with the Lord," she asked. "He told his wife that he had mentioned it to the Lord and planned to ask Him in his prayers that night to go with him to his new position, if he accepted it. Next day his wife asked him if he had talked further with the Lord about the position. "Yes," the parson said, "I should—and he said he'd go with me as far as Memphis."

Any man who looks at a pretty girl and yet disclaims any interest— is a downright liar. Did you ever see a man look at a road map unless he was trying to get somewhere?

BEDROOM FURNITURE COMBINES LUXURIOUS COMFORT AND EYE APPEAL—Efficient automatic beds that embody the most advanced ideas in patient care have been selected. Beds can be adjusted automatically to any position the patient may desire and each bed is equipped with innerspring mattress. Nursing time and energy time are saved by the use of these modern beds. The small nurse attendant can easily raise or lower the heaviest patient. At the lowest point the fabric height is 18 inches from the floor, a convenient height for ambulatory patients that enables them to get in or out of the bed safely. The raised position brings the fabric height to 27 inches for easy examination or treatment of the patient. Each bedroom has beautiful draperies at windows.

Hobby Competitions

Hobby competitions are excellent for keeping groups of youngsters busy during the summer months. My town's Youth Recreation Board put me in charge of a hobby competition project last year and I don't think I've ever had so much fun.

I assigned various arts and crafts jobs by kits to a number of the youngsters. One of the girls put together a mosaic table top. Another made leather wallets and purses with material that had come in kits which she obtained from one of the local stores.

One little boy told me he wanted to be a lepidopterist. He explained that a lepidopterist is someone who studies butterflies. Getting him started on a hobby was easy enough. I obtained a kit for him which contains butterfly specimens and equipment for capturing and preserving most of these creatures. The boy spent most of his summer out in the woods, and by the time school began again he had an enormous collection mounted and ready to present to his science teacher.

Some of the older boys built model airplanes powered by miniature gasoline engines. These planes are controlled by guide wires, and one bright day the kids held a competition to see who could do the most "stunt flying." The winner was a 14-year-old who managed to make his plane do six loop-the-loops, skim past trees, and then come down for a perfect landing.

Many of the youngsters built model cars, airplanes and boats from easy-to-assemble kits. A few others tried their skill at painting-by-the-numbers. At the end of the summer, there was a contest to see who had come up with the most interesting hobby. I declined the honor of being a judge too. I was so proud of the kids that had I been on the awards panel I would have given prizes to everyone.

Household Hints

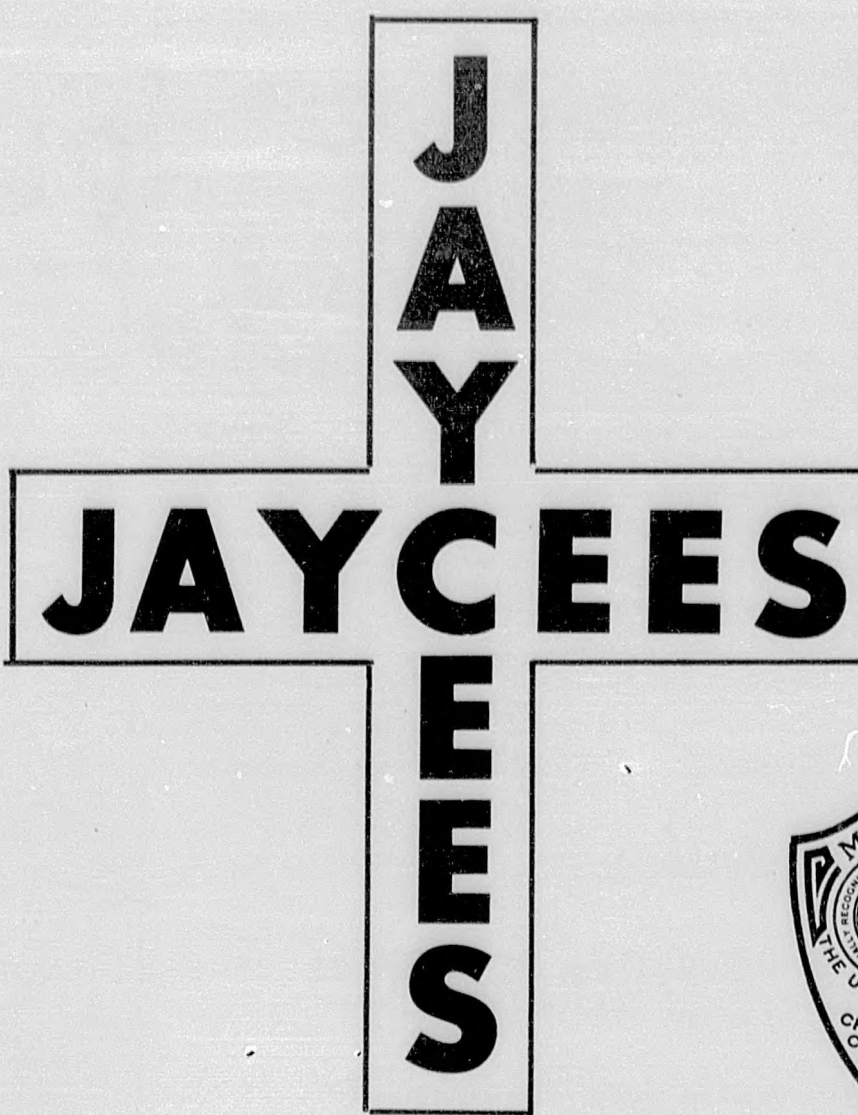

Keep biscuit or pie mix on hand for quick use. Biscuit mix can be used as a basis for griddle cakes, waffles, and, of course, biscuits. With pie mix, make pies, tarts and toppings for meat pies.

To save time when shopping for clothes, include the sizes and preferences for various family items on a card in your wallet or purse.

When making pancakes, heat the griddle while mixing the batter. To test, sprinkle in drops of water. If bubbles "skitter" around, the heat is just right.

Corn Meal Dumplings are a delicious accompaniment for your favorite chicken stew or fresh spring or summer greens. Combine 1 egg, 1/4 cup milk and 1 tablespoon melted shortening or oil. Add to 3/4 cup enriched self-rising corn meal, stirring until all corn meal is moistened. Batter should be quite thick. Drop by teaspoonfuls on top of simmering stew or greens. Cover. Simmer 20 minutes, or until dumplings are cooked. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Hints

A family vacation should be planned to avoid prolonged driving over strange roads or into the night when accident hazards increase greatly.

Russia reportedly supplied almost all of Cuba's wheat and most of her wheat flour - beef, pork and condensed milk during 1961.

To save hours of scouring, boil a solution of one tablespoon of cream of tartar and one quart of water in a blackened aluminum pan.

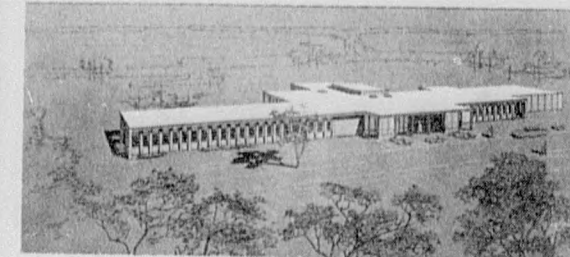

When the floor furnace isn't in use, put a piece of newspaper under the grill and throw a rug over it. This will keep the dust and toys out.

TWO SALESMEN of Durr Surgical Supply are shown as they complete the placing of equipment in the nursery. They are seen as they place the newly designed isolation infant incubator. The hospital is fortunate in having equipment of this type available for the care of newborn infants.

Check Your Social Security Every 3-Years

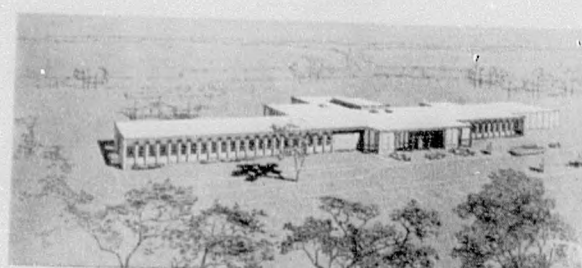

Have you checked on your social security account in the last three years? If not, you should. Harry N. Scott, manager of the Dothan Social Security District office.

Ask for a report on your record at least every three years. Your social security representative will be glad to give you the request form. If there is an error in your account, the social security people will help correct it. Keep in mind that records may not be corrected if the error was made more than three years ago.

There are several things you should do, to make sure your social security account is correct, according to Scott. First, make sure your employer has your name and account number exactly as they are shown on your social security card. Second if you have lost your social security card, don't rely on your memory for the number. Get a duplicate card. It's easy to make a mistake in a number as long as your social security number. Such a mistake can be costly to you and your family when you retire, or if you become disabled or die before you reach retirement age.

"Remember," said Scott, "you pay for your social security, so be sure you get credit for all your earnings. You can be sure if you'll follow these suggestions. The folks at your social security office at Dothan can help you check your account. They can also give more detailed information on the social security program. Check with them and be sure that you get proper credit on your social security record."

ODD CHARACTER

Gracie Field's favorite story is the tale of the man bending his elbow at the bar when another chap strolled in and ordered a glass of root beer. He slipped it thoughtfully, paid the bartender, walked up one wall of the pub, across the ceiling, down the opposite wall, and out the door. The startled patron eyed his drink.

"This is my first one, isn't it?"

"Yes, sir," replied the bartender.

"Then I must have seen what I thought I saw."

"Oh, yes sir. Odd fellow, that. Comes in every evening. Most peculiar, really. He never says 'Goodnight.'"

Proper light in the right place for all surgical procedures and incorporating the most advanced optical and mechanical designs are the features of the new operating light that has been installed in your hospital. Without breaking technique any immediate member of the surgical team (including the surgeon) may direct this light using sterile control handles. The mobility and positioning range of this light eliminates the necessity of moving the patient or operating table during surgery. All of these features add to the comfort of the surgeon and the welfare of the patient.

Budget Plan Required For Top Profits

Would you start on a cross-country trip without a road map? Not likely. The same goes for farming, believes Dr. Sidney Bell of Auburn University. "Farming without a farm plan or a complete budget can be compared to traveling without a map," he says.

"A budget is usually a plan for future use of money," declares the Extension Service farm management specialist. "A farm budget is a plan for future use of farm resources such as land, labor, equipment, livestock and capital."

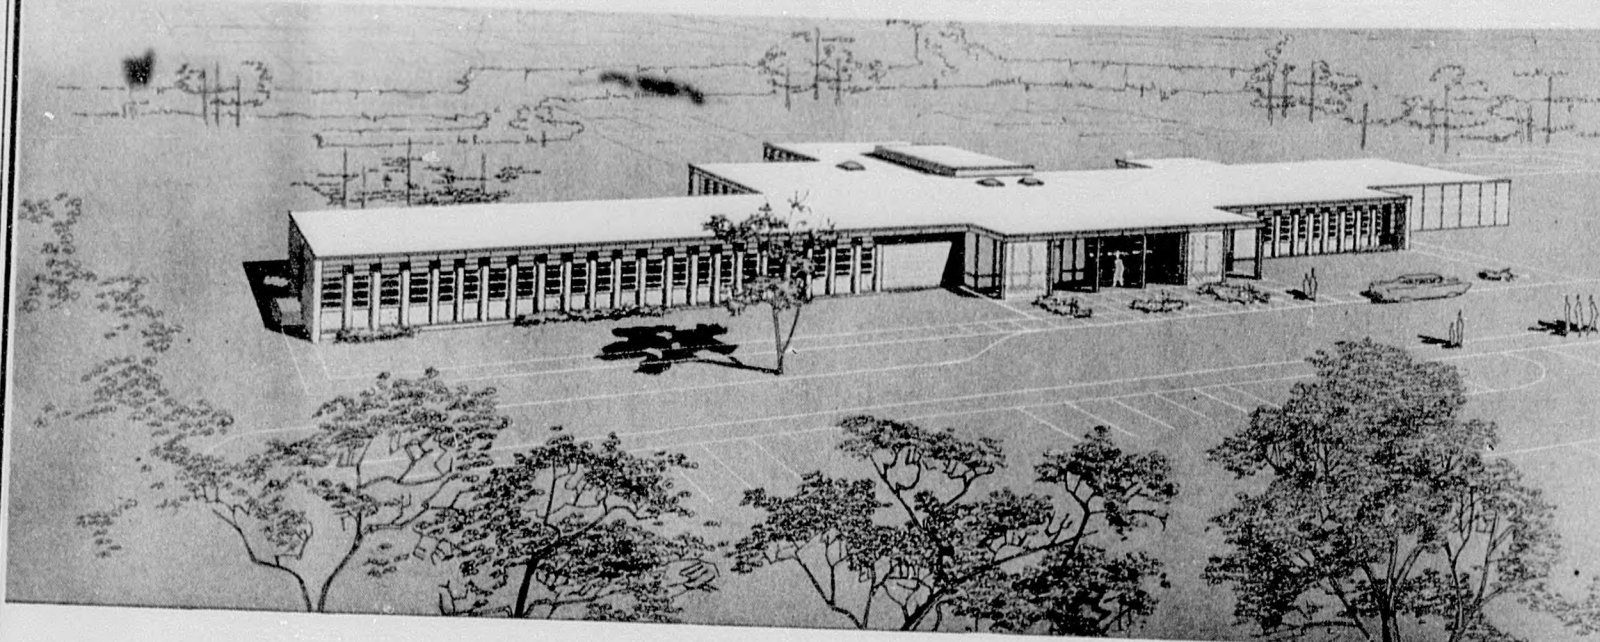

"There are two types of farm budgets - complete and partial. A complete budget shows the expected receipts and cost of production for all crop and livestock enterprises on the farm. A partial budget shows the expected receipts and cost of production for only the crop or livestock being considered."

Pup's Raising Counts More Than Believed

Are you in the market for a dog?

If the answer is yes, don't snap up the first pooch you see just because he rolls those big brown eyes your way. First, make sure his family background matches the kind of dog you're looking for.

The important point to consider is the type dog you want. If you're looking for a frisky, healthy pet - just a plain old dog, in other words - most any mongrel pup will be fine. If you want the glamorous Hollywood type, though, it helps to know about the dogs mama and papa.

The plain fact is that purebreds generally just don't have as much stamina as the common mutt. Mixed dogs are usually stronger because there seems to be a sort of hybrid vigor in them. For instance, it's true that in some cases pedigree puppies are much harder to keep alive than other puppies whose family trees got tangled up somewhere along the line.

Take beagles, for example. There's no real proof, but most dog owners agree that beagle pups are hard to keep alive because they've been bred so exactly.

Dr. Worth Lanier, Auburn University Veterinarian, claims that too much blue blood breeding can create big problems for dogs. In some snub-nosed dogs like boxers, for example, dog breeders have found that they can shorten the size of the dog's nose even further through selective breeding. But this often leads to respiratory ailments for the dog.

In long-eared dogs like spaniels and poodles, breeders have been able to come up with even longer-eared dogs. But those are the very ones that usually develop ear troubles. Breeders tinkered around until they finally produced the bowlegged Chihuahua. But the Chihuahua has the weakest leg joints of any breed.

So if you want to buy a dog, keep in mind that mongrels - though maybe not as refined - are at least more peppy. And stronger, too.

Greater Patient Comfort In Oxygen Tents

More efficient use of oxygen can be obtained in the latest model oxygen tent that has been purchased. For patient comfort temperature under the oxygen hood is held constant within one degree at all times. A modulating temperature valve automatically mixes the flow of refrigerant, maintaining the exact temperature selected on the control panel. One large slow speed blower provides ample draftless circulation (21 cu. feet per minute) with low noise level.

Cocoa will taste better if a pinch of salt is added to it. Coffee, too. But don't use too much.

Outlook For 1963 Crops Good Despite Lower Acreage

Despite slightly lower acreage, the outlook for 1963 crops in Alabama is generally good, according to Agriculture Commissioner A. W. Todd. Todd, in releasing the July report of the Alabama Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, noted that crops looked especially good in the Northern part of the state.

"I can't remember when corn looked any better," the commissioner commented following a tour through Northwest Alabama today.

Todd said that the total acreage of corn was 1,250,000 around two per cent above last year. He added that the grain yield is forecast at 26 bushels per acre on the basis of growers' reports as of July 1. "If this yield is realized," Todd said, "production will be 32,604,000 bushels."

This will be slightly below the '62 level of 35,026,000.

Severe winter weather was blamed for the decline.

The Commissioner said lower allotments were largely responsible for the seven per cent drop from last year's 917,000 acres to the estimated 850,000 acres planted in cotton.

He added that floodings, particularly in the Northern part of the state, caused some setbacks but this was offset in part by the unusually light weevil infestation.

Potato production in Baldwin, Mobile, and Escambia counties was off two per cent despite a larger planted acreage.

Todd said. The drought during the growing season was blamed.

Peach production has passed the 1,200,000 bushel mark - some 35 per cent of the '62 frost bitten crop.

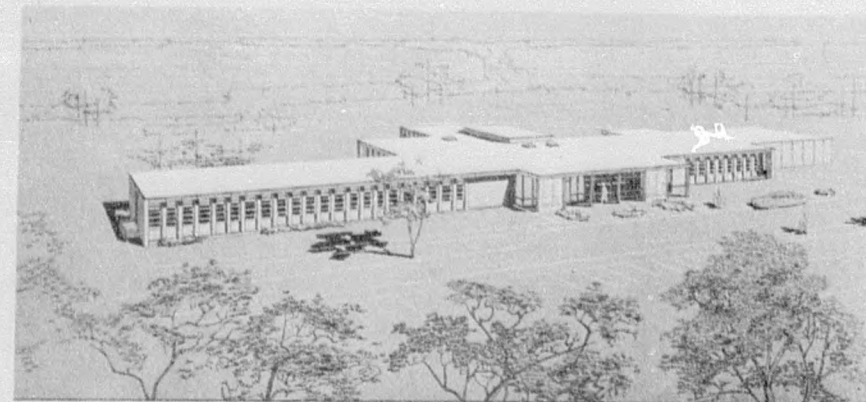

Size and quality are listed as "very good."

"Peanut acreage in the state is placed at 210,000 a record low," Todd stated. He added that much replanting was necessary and thin stands were common.

Oat production is down 34 per cent from last year and is at the lowest stage since 1951 while wheat, at 759,000 bushels is off 10 per cent, the lowest for the state since 1954.

Hay production is forecast at 493,000 tons, a two per cent drop from last year.

Incubators Fix Air Circulation

The outstanding features of this new incubator are the redesigned air circulation system, precise atmospheric control and the new one-piece conditioning chamber. Fresh, pathogen-free air from outside the hospital, or micro-filtered nursery air, is drawn through the air intake fitting and circulated by the blower, with or without added oxygen. The air is forced around the heating element and over the humidity reservoir. This air, humidified as prescribed, is then diverted into the mattress area through the humidity control valve. This incubator offers true isolation, in precise control of all atmospheric conditions to insure each infant maximum protection.

HEALTH HINTS By JOHN PEYTON

SENSIBLE SUMMER EATING

So many people who take their vitamins every morning all winter long, feel that once summer is here, it's no longer necessary to have that Uniceg with their morning orange juice. It's true, of course, that summer fruits and vegetables are excellent sources of vitamins and minerals. But it's also true that summer eating habits tend to be more erratic than winter schedules. Hot summer weather may not be as conducive to good appetite, and cold sodas and quick snacks may cut down on the desire for regular meals, at a season when we may be most active.

The wisest suggestion is to try to eat three well-balanced meals every day regardless of heat or busy schedules. That means including the basic food groups recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture: milk, poultry, meat, eggs and fish; fruits and vegetables; and bread and cereals. But since we're all only human and there are bound to be those days when we don't eat three well-balanced meals, many prudent people continue their vitamin capsule every morning—all year round—to insure that they obtain their minimum requirements.

Some Tips To Remember In Case Of Flood

Farm and city people alike should know what to do in case of floods. The disastrous flood which recently hit Hartsville in Morgan County points up the cold facts of what can happen without warning. Everybody should know what to do if a flooding emergency does come.

If you're ever flooded out, remember these tips:

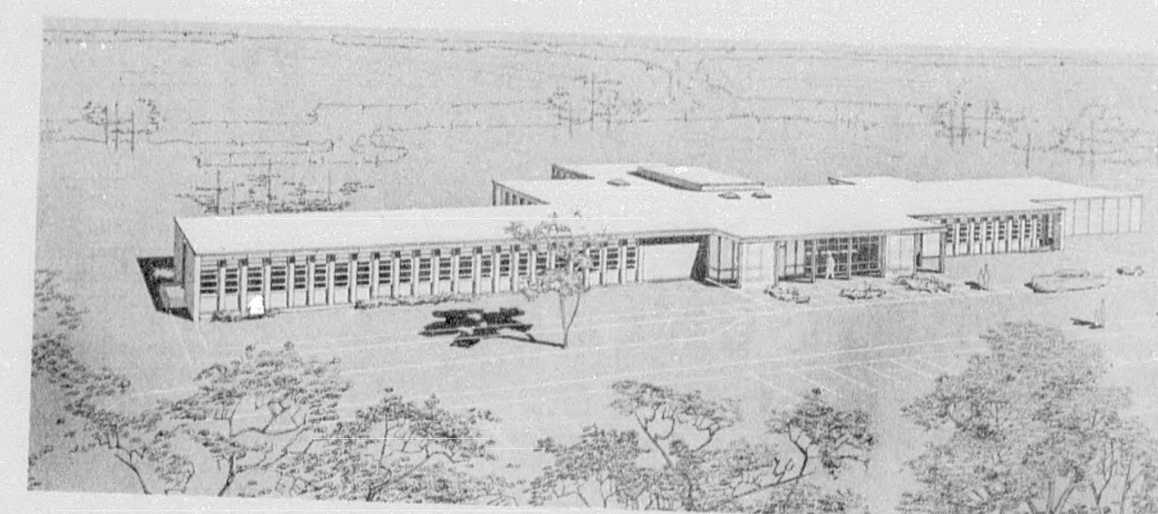

Have your water supply tested to see if it's safe.

Then start cleaning up as soon as the floodwater goes down. Remember to clean out and dry the house before trying to live in it again. Don't turn on electrical equipment until it has been tested.

Take all furniture and rugs outside to air, and start cleaning all bedding and clothing as soon as possible. Test your plumbing fixtures by flushing with buckets of water, and have sanitary disposal systems checked by health officials.

Make a Beauty Box for Beach

Beauty on the beach can be as guaranteed and colorful if you highlight your beach accessories with a beach beauty box. It's easy to make and ideal for carrying rollers and pins for quick after-sun pin-ups, and make-up supplies to accentuate your mid-summer tan.

All you need is an empty cigar box, a piece of tissue paper, and a roll of colorful adhesive covering. You might choose a bright yellow to match a yellow-flowered suit. Or a red and white checked pattern to complement a white bathing suit. To make your beach beauty box:

Choose a cigar box in good condition. Remove any loose papers clinging to the box. Select a roll of Marvlon adhesive covering in a solid color or pattern.

Partially unroll the Marvlon, backing side up, on a flat surface. Cut a piece large enough to cover the entire outside of the box. Peel off the backing and apply. Make cuts at the corners and fold adhesive smoothly over sides and lid. Line the box with a matching or contrasting covering cut to size.

Glue mirror to the inside of the lid, using a liquid cement. For additional glamour, trim the box with cutouts of a contrasting color. Just draw or trace on the backing of the adhesive covering, cut out, peel off backing, and apply.

Bedroom Furniture Has Comfort And Eye Appeal

Ultra efficient automatic beds that embody the most advanced ideas in patient care have been selected. Beds can be adjusted automatically to any position the patient may desire and each bed is equipped with in-springing mattress. Nursing time and energy are saved by the use of these modern beds. The small nurse or attendant can easily raise or lower the heaviest patient. At the lowest point the fabric height is 18" from the floor, a convenient height for ambulatory patients that enables them to get in or out of the bed safely. The raised position brings the fabric height to 27" for easy examination or treatment of the patient.

Eighty Acre Site Chosen For Elba's New Country Club

Elba's Country Club came closer to being a reality Monday when it was announced by General Chairman, Sonny Inman, that an eighty acre site had been procured at the city limits of Elba. The site location committee, headed by Doctor Bryan Taylor, screened over twenty locations near Elba and it was recently decided the Sam Taylor farm on the Coffee County Lake Road was by far the best location.

Members of the site location committee are Charlie Anderson, Ellis Brazleton, Roy King and Bryan Taylor, who report this parcel of land is potentially one of the most beautiful Country Club locations in this part of the state.

One possible location of the club house will be under large shade sycamore, oak and pecan trees fronting a paved road. The swimming pool and tennis courts will be located adjacent to the club house area and a lake will be immediately behind the club house. The lake will be used for boating, fishing, and will serve as a source of water for the nine hole golf course greens and fairways.

The site location committee completed working out final plans Monday night for financing the project. A limited number of memberships will soon be sold locally and the cost of membership will be $200 per family. The Elba Exchange Bank has agreed to finance this amount for prospective members and the loan can be paid back in 12, 18 or 24 monthly installments. This membership fee will be used for such expenses as land purchase, club house, swimming pool, tennis courts, clubhouse, etc.

This club will be a credit to our fine town, supplying clean, wholesome recreational areas for our young and old alike. Our entire community will be proud of this new facility and it warrants the wholehearted support, influence and membership of all civic minded people in and around Elba.

The recent completion of our new hospital along with the Country Club will make our town more attractive to new business and industry. Let us all work together for a better community and a "Greater Elba."

Sumrall To Speak Tuesday At C of C
Mr. Curtis Sumrall, industrial representative with the State Planning and Industrial Development Board and also a recognized inventor with 14 patents to his credit, will be the guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce meeting Tuesday night, August 20.
